

Artist Donates Her Work to the KVC Sims Family Center

The new KVC Sims Family Center in Olathe, Kan., opened in May 2015, is the hub of the KVC Institute for Health Systems Innovation and is also the headquarters for KVC Kansas, which serves thousands of Kansas children and families with family preservation services, foster family support, adoption, in-home therapy, and outpatient behavioral healthcare.

International award-winning painter, sculptor and filmmaker Rita Blitt graciously donated artwork from her collection to brighten up the walls in conference rooms, work areas and wellness/simulation rooms. Blitt says, "My work celebrates nature, my love of music, dance and the spontaneous flow of movement captured in the drawn gesture. My drawings and paintings, some of which become sculptures, are often created with two hands at once. When the lines flow from my hands, I feel like I am dancing."
