Cross curriculum is a big buzz word in the public education field. If you can combine a lesson plan or unit with a subject other than art, the administration loves that. In that spirit, I love studying the art work and the approach Rita Blitt uses in her work. What two classes do I combine? Dancing and any art class can work.

For my Art 1 classes, they can draw gestures and turn them into abstract art or movement art. For sculpture and ceramics, they can create sculptures from their gesture drawings. The dance students can learn to express their own movements visually on paper.
